

Carbon fee and dividend

Delivering predictable prices and clean energy to Americans.

Americans shouldn't have to live with price shocks and energy inflation. A carbon fee and dividend will drive energy innovation, giving every American community access to abundant, affordable clean energy at a predictable price. With a carbon fee, corporate polluters pay a fee for the damage their carbon pollution does to our environment. The money collected from the carbon fee goes to the American people in the form of a monthly payment to use as we choose.

CF&D is good for America

A carbon fee and dividend:

- Doesn't cost taxpayers additional money. Corporate polluters pay for the damage they cause, which is fair.
- Supports America's economy by driving innovation that will put millions of Americans to work in good careers
- Gives the market a say: the economy decides the most efficient way to provide Americans with power
- Helps American manufacturers by putting a fee on high carbon goods sold in the U.S. by foreign manufacturers
